

A NEW SEASON & A NEW LOOK FOR ett

Well, after a long summer break we're up and running again at the ett newsletter work station. And heads up everyone because we have a slick new website. It's still the same address www.englishtheatertorino.com but a whole new look courtesy of the impressive skills of our very own Communications Director, Colleen Sharkey. Colleen has done us all proud with a fresh new colour scheme. There is also a new logo and wallpaper background: a collage collection of all our past performance posters, from Mark Charnley that we're going to be using on our newsletters from now on! So, its updates all round.

We have changed our email address so please make a note of the new one: ett@englishtheatertorino.com

And we have also started rehearsing for a new play rather intriguingly called "Play On". However, you will have to be patient, as we can't reveal even a sliver of an extra detail at this point. But we promise we'll let you know more VERY soon. In order to keep up the suspense we have a selection of photos from recent rehearsals on page 3 of this newsletter...

Not more technical hitches!!!!

In an amateur theater group things don't always run smoothly. In fact, sometimes things happen that are downright surreal. You just have to laugh, don't you? Here's our latest story in a series of technical hitch sagas. At the DVD viewing of "A Murder Is Announced" a couple of weeks ago, we gathered at the bar, close to our rehearsal space, eagerly anticipating the moment when we could see ourselves treading the boards on screen. Inserted into the player, the DVD started to play...but there was something strange...the sound wasn't on. We finally discovered that the bar staff had rather strangely forgotten to tell us that we could watch the DVD but we wouldn't be able to hear anything!!! What??? Should we really have to ask that question? They knew all along! Since we didn't record "A Murder Is Announced" to be a silent movie, we decided the only solution was to go for dinner at the pizzeria across the street and save the screening for another day!

Everyone!
